SkyTel Billing and Refunds Guide

Charges, late fees, failed recharges, refunds and disputes

Overview

This guide explains how charges appear on your account, what happens when a payment fails, and how to dispute a charge. Online assistants can explain these rules but cannot start refunds or disputes.

Common charges on your statement

Statement label	Meaning	Typical amount
Recharge	Money or a plan added to your number	Depends on plan
Plan purchase	A base plan bought from your balance	₹149 to ₹799
Add-on deduction	A pack bought or renewed from your balance	₹19 to ₹199
Daily Data Pack	1 GB extra data for one day	₹19
Caller Tune	Monthly ringback tune charge	₹30 per month
Refund	Money returned to you	Varies

Postpaid late fee

Postpaid invoices can include a late fee of ₹100 when payment remains overdue after the due date. Pay before the due date to avoid it. The due date is shown on every invoice.

Failed recharges

Sometimes a payment is captured but the recharge does not appear on your number. In that case the reversal is normally completed within 5 business days. UPI and wallet reversals usually show up in 1 to 3 business days, and cards and net banking can take up to 5 business days. If the money has not returned after that, check with your payment provider first, then contact SkyTel support.

How to dispute a charge

1. Note the date, the amount and the reference number from your statement or payment receipt.
2. Contact SkyTel support at 1800-000-0000 and share these details.
3. Support reviews the charge and tells you the outcome. If the charge was wrong, the amount is returned to the original payment method.

What support needs from you

- Your SkyTel mobile number.

- The transaction date and amount.
- The reference number from your receipt or statement.
- A short description of what looks wrong.

Never share a full card number, a PIN or a one-time password (OTP). SkyTel support will never ask for them.

Frequently asked questions

Q: How long does a failed recharge refund take?

A: Normally within 5 business days. UPI and wallets are often faster.

Q: What is the postpaid late fee?

A: ₹100, added when payment remains overdue after the due date.

Q: Can the online assistant start a refund?

A: No. Contact SkyTel support with the transaction date, amount and reference number.

Q: Why was ₹19 deducted yesterday?

A: That is usually the Daily Data Pack, an add-on that costs ₹19. Check your statement for the exact label.
